Carnival costumes

Mexicans love festivals and celebrations where they can dress up in elaborate clothes.

- This lady is dressed in a costume from Tehuantepec in southern Mexico. It is worn for religious festivals.
  - Black skirt with embroidered flowers

- This man is ready to take part in the Dance of the Flyers, an acrobatic routine performed on hanging ropes.
  - Drum
  - His trousers are bright red, with purple, green and yellow patterns.
  - His striped hat is decorated with red and white flowers.

Food is often served in large bowls. This one is decorated in a traditional Maya pattern.