The Tower of London was built by William the Conqueror, soon after he invaded England in 1066.

This is the main building. It’s known as the White Tower, although it’s actually grey and white.

Black ravens live at the Tower.